How can we avoid financial loss in this trend?

Our team arranged two major ways and made assessment:

- Relocating the fishing some of company's assets.
- Using small advanced fishing vessels which remain the quality of the catch.

These two ways are already evaluated by our team. Choosing Peterhead region as an example, we calculated the profit of local fishing companies in the next 50 years. You can get the detailed information from this line chart. The conclusion is explicit. Both two strategies will make small fishing companies continue to profit. However, as the dashed line shows, if no action are taken, the immigration of fish does bring financial loss.

That's it for this installment. In general, under the trend of global warming, fisheries have to make some changes. If any further information is needed, please free free to contact our team, # 2014906. Private consultation for strategy analysis is also supported.
